

SUMMARY

HA-673

Hopkins-Briney House
3403 Old Level Road
Havre de Grace, MD 21078

This frame Second Empire house dating from around 1885, although slightly out of sync with current fashion, is remarkably stylish for Harford County. Part of the structure may date from the early-to-mid 19th century when it was owned by Joseph Davis and then by Wellmore Hopkins, but the Second Empire improvements probably were not made until after Hopkins' death and his heirs took over. There are records that there was a store at this location in 1831.

Crawford-Briney House

The Hopkins-Briney house, a Second Empire 2-1/2 story clapboard house with a mansard roof, is located on the Northeast corner of the intersection of Glenville Road & Old Level Road.

Facing South, the house is el-shaped: the main or southern section is 5 bays wide and 2 bays deep, while the gable-roofed ell extending to the North, flush with the East end, is 3 bays long and 1 room deep with a 1-story shed-roofed addition at the North end. The 3 brick chimneys with corbelled caps are located as follows: 1 in the North end of the ell, and 2 central chimneys flanking the center bay in the main section. Windows have 2/2 sash, plain wide trim with a slightly projecting cornice, and louvered shutters. The dormers in the mansard roof have gable roofs and the windows have segmental arched top sashes. Both the main section and ell have boxed cornices, the latter with gable returns.

The main section of the house has 3 dormers in the South flank of the roof, 1 in each end, and 2 in the North flank. A hipped-roof porch spans the center 3 bays of the South facade's 1st story, and there is an entrance with sidelights and a transom containing etched glass in the center bay. Windows are arranged symmetrically around the entrance in the 5 bays - those in the 1st story are slightly larger than those in the second.

The East end has two windows in each story. The West end is distinguished by a 3-sided bay window. The North side has 2 windows in the second story and, in the first, an entrance in the center bay and window in the West.

The ell has 3 windows in each story of the West side. The East side is similar with the exception of an entrance in the 1st story South bay. A hipped-roof porch with carved wooden brackets spans the center 3 bays of this side - i.e. the Northern bay of the main section and the Southern and center bays of the ell - giving this side a central emphasis and identity as a main facade.

Located around the house are 5 frame outbuildings: 2 sheds North of the house and East of the house, a gambrel-roofed barn with flared eaves, a 3rd shed and a 2-story haw mow/corn crib.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Hopkins-Briney House

Since access to the interior of the Crawford Briney house was not possible, it is not clear how the history of this parcel of the tract "West Wood" matches up to the structure standing now. The mansard-roofed section probably dates from the fourth quarter of the 19th Century when it was owned by various members of the Hopkins family-- George R., Robert B., and Mary B. -- who owned a large, if floundering, farm and perhaps a cannery as well. The gable-roofed ell may predate the mansard section and may have been the residence of Wellmore (or Willmor) Hopkins from 1846 until 1880. There are records that there may have been a structure in this location as early as 1814, although there is no exterior architectural evidence to suggest any of the present structures are that old. There was also a store at this corner in 1831.

The saga of the land is as follows: in 1774 William Cox, who owned Cox's Mill on Glenville Road, sold to Samuel Willits 64 acres of "Westwood" and 95-1/2 acres of "Willis Purchase" for 2319 pounds.¹ The next year Robert Hawkins paid Willits 398 pounds 15s for both parcels,² and in 1780 split the land with his son Richard Hawkins for the price of 166 bushels of merchantable wheat.³ Then in 1807 Richard Hawkins gave to his son, John Hawkins, 4 acres "for the better maintenance support livelihood and perferment of him"⁴, and in 1810, William Harrod paid Hawkins $500 for those 4 acres, and took out a $400 mortgage. Joseph Davis paid $600 for the parcel in 1814; an advertisement for a public sale of the property in 1831 states that Joseph Davis, Esq., resided there for a long time and that the improvements are "a comfortable frame dwelling with all necessary outbuildings, and a well of excellent water at the door; the land is well improved, and has also upon it a commodious store house, for many years occupied as such; and for any one desirous of keeping a country store, it offers, in all respects, a most convenient residence."⁸

Willmor Hopkins paid $950 for this lot and an adjacent 47-1/2-acre farm in 1846.⁹ The scope of Hopkins' personal inventory--"2 setts bedroom furniture and one bed, 1 wardrobe, 1 set chairs, 1 clock, parlor furniture, 23 silver spoons and sugar tongs, 1 cooking stove, and 1 dining table and chairs," valued at $1,001.00 in 1880¹⁰ indicates that he may have lived in a house the size of the gable-roofed section, rather than the mansard section. A mortgage taken out by Mary Hopkins in 1886 includes her "5 bedroom sets, 1 suit of parlor furniture, dining room furniture, chairs, tables, glass and crockery ware."¹¹--perhaps more suitable for a structure the size of the mansard section.

Havre de Grace, MD 21078

HA-673

In any case, houses of the Second Empire Style are extremely rare in Harford County. Two others are the Amos-Archer House (HA-1260) and "Fair Meadows" (HA-1067), both stone. The Hopkins-Briney house is basically a standard 5 bay wide, symmetrically-arranged frame farmhouse with a mansard roof on it, but that roof gives the house an uncommon stylishness (although slightly out of sync with current fashion) and distinction.
